

Knowledgebase > International students > Living in New Zealand > Driving on New Zealand Roads and converting my overseas drivers licence to a New Zealand licence?

Driving on New Zealand Roads and converting my overseas drivers licence to a New Zealand licence?

Sarah Ryder - 2020-12-17 - Living in New Zealand

You can drive in New Zealand if you have a valid overseas licence or driver permit, however there are criteria that must be met.

See the New Zealand Transport Agency website for full information.

- You can drive on your overseas driver's licence for a maximum period of 12 months from the date you arrive in New Zealand
- If you will be in New Zealand for more than a year, you will need to obtain a New Zealand driver licence.
- You can apply to convert your overseas licence if it is still current or has expired less than 12 months ago.

To convert your overseas driver licence to a New Zealand driver licence, you must apply at a driver licensing agent. For further information, please see the New Zealand Transport Agency website.

Related Content

- Who can drive on New Zealand roads?
- What is different about driving in New Zealand?
- How do I buy a car?
- What are the rules for cycling in New Zealand?
- How do I buy a bike or motorised scooter?