

How long does my account remain active after the end of my current course?

Rachel Rees - 2024-05-21 - Using campus computers & printers

You can access your NMIT account for one month after your course end date each year. E.g. if your current year of study ended 27 November 2015, you can access your account until 27 December 2015.

You will then not be able to access your account until your course commencement date for the following year/once enrolment has been processed.