

I'm being bullied and harassed. What should I do?

Rachel Rees - 2021-03-03 - Living in New Zealand

In New Zealand it is unlawful to discriminate against people, or treat them differently. The law states that no one may discriminate against another person because of their gender, religious belief, race, disability or sexual orientation.

If you believe that you have been the victim of discrimination, harassment and bullying you should speak to the team in Learner Services, the Wellbeing Support team or contact SANITI straight away. If you are studying in Nelson, you might also find the Speakout website helpful.

Related Content

- What do I need to know about keeping safe in New Zealand?
- Urgent student assistance 0800718277